You may not use ANY type of social media to discuss patients. This includes texting or emailing anyone. If you need to discuss a patient situation with an instructor, this needs to take place in a private setting.

Privacy has been violated even if a discussion does not include patient names or facilities. Information about the patient during the discussion could easily lead to private health information being disclosed.

Even a non-intentional disclosure is potentially harmful.

Further details about HIPAA will be given in class during the first week of school. You are receiving two (2) pamphlets regarding the use of social media and professional boundaries. These are produced by the National Council of State Boards of Nursing.
